THE LEADING DAILY NEWSPAPER

An Opening for You

You remember the story of the little boy in Holland who saved a city from flood by stopping an opening in the dike

It was only a little hole at first but in a few hours the city would have been destroyed.

These little "openings" are full of mighty possibilities.

Often you will find an opening in the want ad columns that will place you in a position of responsibility at a large salary.

In your own firm there are a dozen men competing with you for the same place. In the want ad columns the tables are turned and there are a dozen firms competing with each other for the same man.

It will pay you to read these columns every evening of the year. The very opening you want may be advertised only once, for the best positions are those which are most readily filled. So read the ads regularly—begin today.
